The game

Who's here? Whadya say we find a seat? How come the other team looks so much bigger? ... "Here we go Indians, here we go!" ... Can I bum a smoke? I lost my seat. I wish those cheerleaders would shut up. You know what they say in the News. Really ... I never know what's happening; I just clap when everyone else does ... I'll bet it rains for the Evanston game. Who's Cichowski chewing out now? ... Who you taking out tonight? Shut up and watch the game. I never watch the game; I just watch the cheerleaders ... We're down by 3; what a drag ... "We don't mess around, hey!" We're starting to kick, let's get rowdy. You see that hit? He wiped him out - all right! "V-I-C-T-O-R-Y. That's the Indian battle cry."

HAPPY 75th BIRTHDAY!

Having concluded their research of New Trier's past, the ECHOES staff joins Dr. Bickert and Mr. McGee in the celebration of the school's Diamond jubilee. The results of this work can be found throughout ECHOES '75 on all pages designated with the special Diamond jubilee insignia.

All captions on these special pages are presented exactly as they appear in the past editions of ECHOES.

Added attractions

MANY STUDENTS have found the need to supplement their routine school work with more interesting and individualized methods of learning. Perhaps one of the most effective means of achieving this goal was the after-school clubs.

Pupils showed surprising enthusiasm towards groups which extended mental concentration beyond school hours. Aesculapians developed into a highly successful organization as it hosted speakers from various branches of medicine. The National math exam offered Bernoullians the opportunity to expand their mathematical abilities. In anticipation of Illinois' first high school bridge tournament, Bridge club members polished their card skills. Coming off its 1974 state title year, Chess club also sent its most outstanding players into state competition.

NATURE-RELATED clubs were equally successful in sparking student interest. Hosteling club's array of hiking, skiing, and biking trips was strongly attended, while Biology club planned visits to the Indiana dunes, Morton Arboretum, and various museums. Astronomy club was a more unique group in that it was basically night-oriented, and was mainly concerned with late night and early morning observances in open fields.

Some participants used the organizations to further develop their talents. Industrial arts club's goal was to imitate mass production techniques on a smaller scale while giving students the opportunity to work on individual projects. The Junior and Senior music clubs spent their time improving their musical skills and then sharing the results with fellow members.

Above: Hostellers show a handsome array of enthusiasm for a tentative ski trip. Below: An Industrial arts member puts his hand to the wheel and his nose to the grindstone. (Rezabek, Morrow)

NEWLY-FORMED CLUBS were unusually well attended. The enthusiastically-initiated Pursuers of pleasure, POP club, sponsored many trips to museums, plays, and other areas of cultural interests. Perhaps the most unusual of all activities was the Conflict simulations club which re-enacted famous historical battles through the medium of commercial games.

Any student who inquired found that clubs had gone beyond their old boundaries of merely extending regular school subjects; interests in art, music, and nature could be pursued in more than 20 extracurricular attractions.

PUT to work

WITH THE LOGISTICS of the Program for unassigned time behind it, Student council shifted its energy to insuring the program's continuation. President David Shapiro sparked the necessary participation in the student hall guard corps by circulating sign-up sheets through the adviser rooms following all school assemblies. Council operated under executive and legislative boards coordinated by four elected officers.

The "Keep it clean" days during Shapiro's administration inspired students to maintain a cleaner lunchroom. The newly constructed food stand in the cafeteria contributed to the improved sanitation conditions by limiting trash to a specific area and also providing refreshments more efficiently than the previously installed vending machines.

Second semester president John Denniston and his staff planned not only to continue council's traditional responsibilities, but also to introduce an option of replacing the Consumer economics course requirement with an adequate score on the state administered Con-econ test. (Directory: page 35)

Lending a hand

SHOUTS OF "THE BUS is coming," awakened sleepy Social service volunteers early Saturday mornings. Under the dedicated leadership of Faculty coordinator Thomas Forrer and Student co-heads Doug Meyer and Sally Ernst, participants were offered a diverse choice of activities. In addition to tutoring at Cordi Marion, Isham, St. Charles, Christopher House, and in Glencoe, students also worked with infants at Michael Reese hospital, children at Chicago Reed mental health center, and elderly people at two local nursing homes.

Weekly seminars enabled Social service members to discuss individual problems and plans for upcoming events. To meet the basic transportation cost, the board planned a rummage sale and a concert which supplemented Tri-ship's and Girls' club's annual aid.

The key word in Social service was "relationship." Students formed binding friendships with the individuals they assisted each week. As one volunteer commented, "Although the kids may not learn all the multiplication tables, they do learn that someone cares enough to teach them." (Directory: page 39)

Tri-umph

FORMING STRONG BONDS with both Girls' club and the student body, Tri-ship sailed along on a wave of enthusiasm to one of the most successful years in its history. The combined efforts of Tri-ship and their female counterpart resulted in a bountiful fall canned food drive. Unfortunately, they were not as successful in their other co-sponsorship. Lagniappe, once the major source of scholarship funds, maintained its low level of ticket sales which has plagued the performance in recent years.

The students also were very much a part of the club's activities. Usher corps doubled in size while N-club support enabled the lettermen to conduct an extremely profitable ski hat sale. The Ice cream social, annually a break-even project, netted nearly $300. Christmas also brought good tidings as all of the organization's 2000 Christmas trees were sold with over 100 salesmen taking part. With the continuation of these bonds, Tri-ship hopes to make next year, its 50th anniversary, even more outstanding. (Directory: page 36)

The girls next door

DEDICATION AND INGENUITY were the keys to the success of this year's Girls' club. The club surpassed its financial scholarship needs by sponsoring the second annual pumpkin sale and the yearly spring magazine drive. President Melissa Hines attributed the fiscal victory to the devotion of board members, interested students, and the new sponsor, Mrs. Sue Taylor.

Success, however, was not only measured in dollars. Tri-ship and Girls' club jointly collected over 7,000 cans for the Holy Family community center in Chicago. The girls also sponsored other social awareness activities including adviser room Christmas projects and the spring charity drive.

New projects further strengthened the organization. Capitalizing on a modern trend, the club sold American Indian jewelry and used the proceeds for scholarships. For the first time in its history, New Trier also hosted the Inter-school Girls' club conference, a one-day series of workshops and entertainment involving over 100 Chicago area clubs. (Directory: page 37)

Snap, crackle, pep

PEP CLUB once again resurrected the potential spirit of New Trier students. Through creative cheers and routines, the pom-pom and cheerleading squads incited Indian fervor. The pom-pom squad's skill and creativity also helped it capture first and second place trophies in the state-wide clinic. Greater student involvement was further stimulated by the addition of the Green-peppers, the freshman cheerleading squad. The financial functions of selling New Trier tée-shirts, buttons, and food at athletic events were supervised by the board.

The three individual Pep club branches combined to reorganize the club. The rule limiting a girl to two years on a squad or board position was abolished because it discriminated against those girls with the skill or interest to participate in the organization for more than two years. (Directory: page 40)

To serve and protect

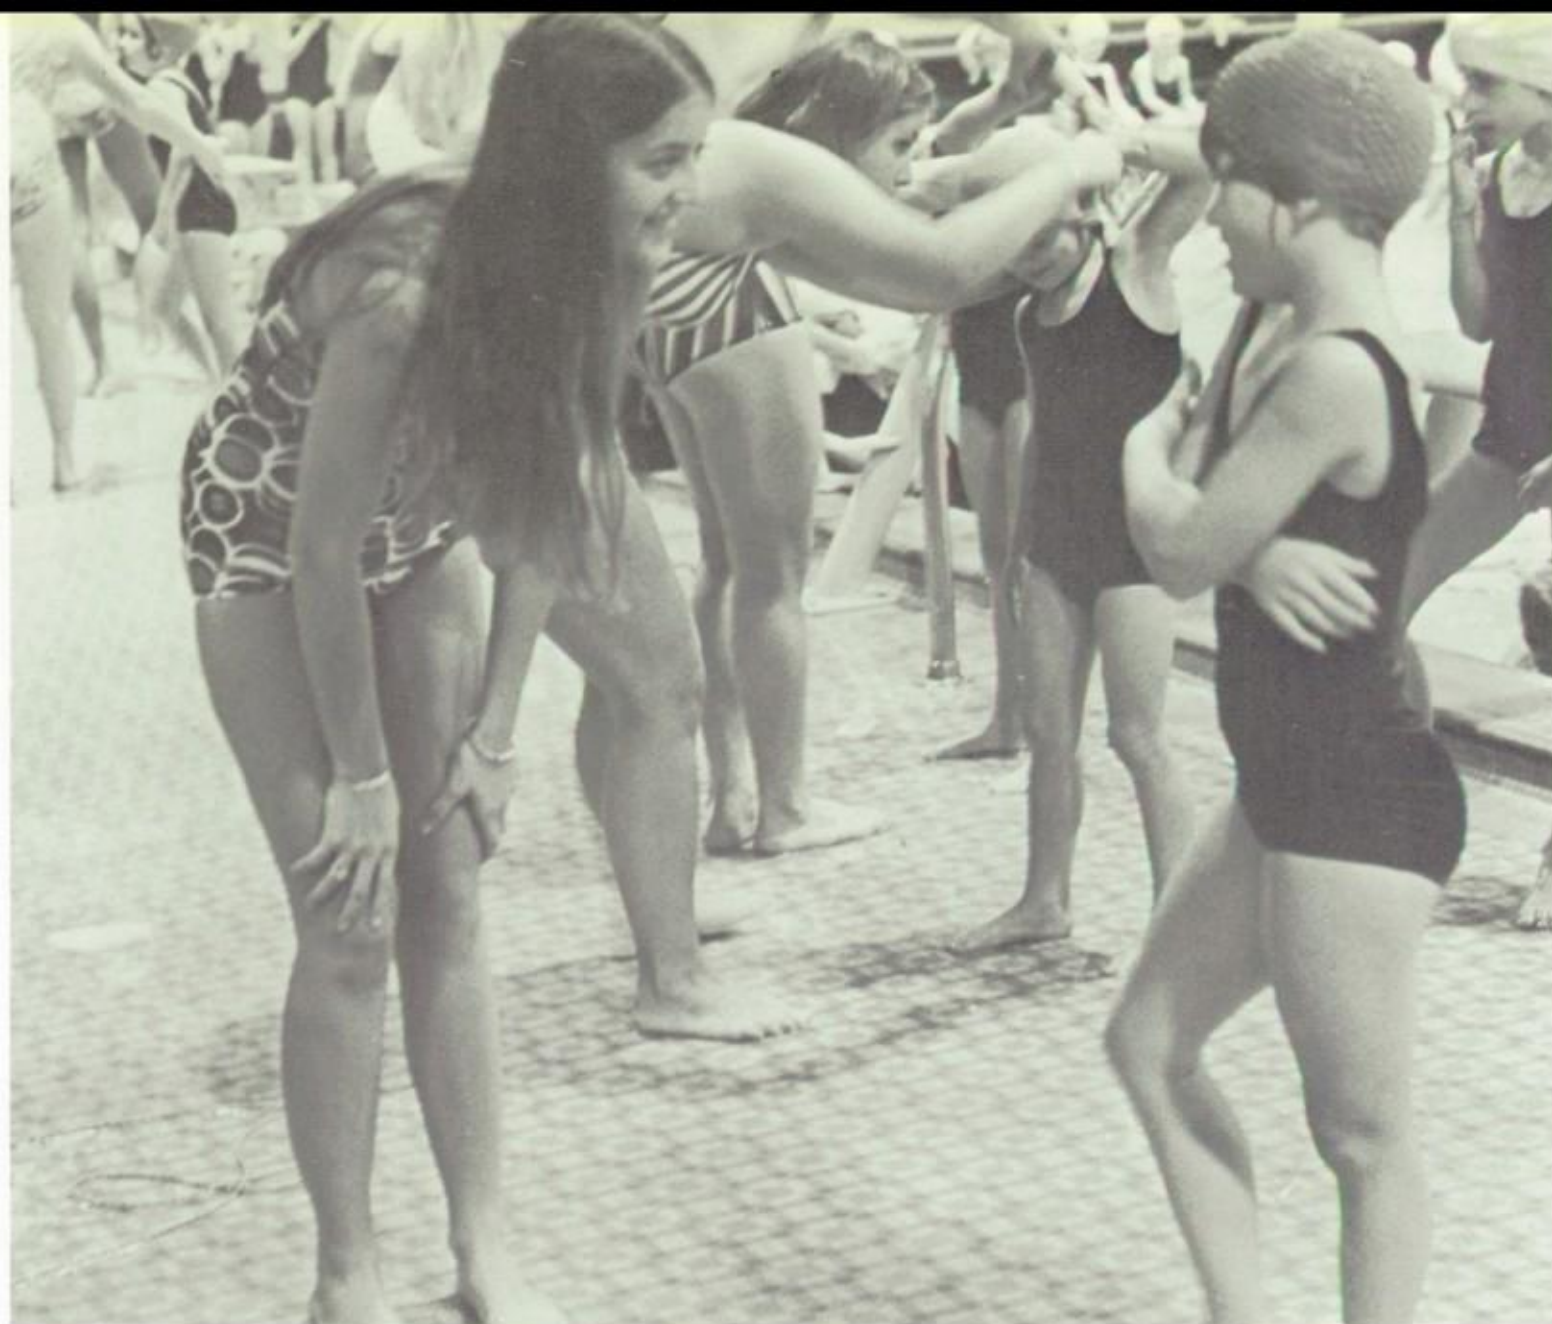

THE SPORTS SERVICES, consisting of football, basketball, wrestling, and gymnastics statisticians, the swimming and track timers, and the New Trier guard were once again integral to the success of New Trier athletics.

Relieved by the statisticians of immeasurable hours of recording and tabulating, athletic coaches were able to use their time to concentrate on analyzing the results. The services of the New Trier guard were twofold. Guard members not only taught neighborhood children the art of swimming and diving, but also used the situation to better understand basic techniques of primary instruction.

These various organizations provided the participants with the opportunity to expand their athletic knowledge, and to give invaluable assistance to New Trier teams. (Directory: page 42)

The open-door policy

THE TYPICAL high school student lives and thinks within the boundaries of his own world. As a product of the North Shore, the typical New Trier student tends to see life through suburban eyes and to judge what he sees with New Trier standards. The American field service provided opportunities for students to reach beyond the limits of one high school culture to experience another.

This year, Bruce Rosenzweig left Winnetka for Amsterdam, and New Trier hosted Marisela Ruiz from Costa Rica, Naomi Nakata from Japan, and Claudio Aspesi from Italy. As well as exposing the students to an American academic environment, the organization introduced them to social life through such activities as apple-picking and building a Homecoming float. In return, the foreign students displayed their cultures as well as others during the AFS-sponsored International day. (Directory: page 44)

The Royal Tudors

The Student tutoring board builds knowledge from ruins. (Woods)

IN A SMALL ROOM overlooking the gymnasium roof, the Student tutoring board was hard at work, file cards in hand. Even though the view was dreary, the organization was a cheerful one, realizing that it was the salvation of many a frustrated scholar. In its fifteenth year, Student tutoring was a valuable organization dedicated to easing the academic strain on confused students. It provided tutors in math, science, and foreign languages, the most common sources of mental anguish, and also enlisted tutors in English and history. Utilizing a file system, the board matched tutors with those students who came struggling to their door in a last attempt at enlightenment.

There's University Style in The Lytton Hi Suit

HIGH School Lads demand college style in clothes. We meet this desire with typically collegiate suits—yet they're specially cut for the slimmer figures of Prep age youths. Shoulders cut wide, waist and hips slim—two pairs of full width trousers. Remember too—our Evanston Shop brings downtown Variety and Lower Loop Prices right to your door.

ECHOES

In the years to come you may pick up this volume and glance through these pages. Then will come to you memories of high school—its friendships and associations. You will also remember that in this year New Trier celebrated her twenty-fifth birthday, the silver anniversary of her founding. You will think of the great strides New Trier made upon the path of Progress during those years. How she grew from a small school—small in size and small in number of students—to a school with an enviable national reputation. How her standard ceaselessly rose. Then with even more pride than before you will say, "I am a graduate of that school."

We of this class of 1926 have been, perhaps, too prone to criticize the measures introduced for the betterment or improvement of the school, or the raising of her standard. We fail to see the justice in them, perhaps, because we feel that they are asking too much of us. In other words we fear, or do not want, to make self-sacrifices for old New Trier.

But we shall have this attitude only as long as we are members of the school. When we shall have received our diplomas and started our business or further educational careers, we shall turn back to New Trier and thank her for all she has done for us.

During our four years at New Trier we have helped to make her what she is. We trust that we have made things a little better than when we found them. It is our hope that the classes following us shall always strive to make our school better than they found it.

Radio-active

Although unsure of listener response, Jeff Mizener and John Denniston find future 88.1 broadcasts amusing. (Manker)

EXPANSION AND DEVELOPMENT were the themes of WNTH-FM in its 13th year of broadcast. The station nearly doubled its weekly on-air hours over the average of the past 12 years. In programming, the educational and public affairs programs were placed in day-time slots, while student-produced music shifted to early evening and night scheduling. Along with their established format of progressive and classical music, WNTH expanded to include top-40 and oldies rock, as well as jazz, blues, and country and western.

Sports and special events were approached with a new flair this year. There was broad coverage of football, basketball, baseball, and soccer games. The special events staff focused on the November election. Reporters were stationed at almost every political headquarters in the area, and minute-by-minute coverage was analyzed by the anchormen. With the adoption of their new title, "North Shore Public Radio," WNTH showed a commitment to improving the coverage of local events for the benefit of the listening community. (Directory: page 62)

Mike Englehaupt harnesses the power of sophisticated machinery to air another quality radio program. (Manker)

Super vision

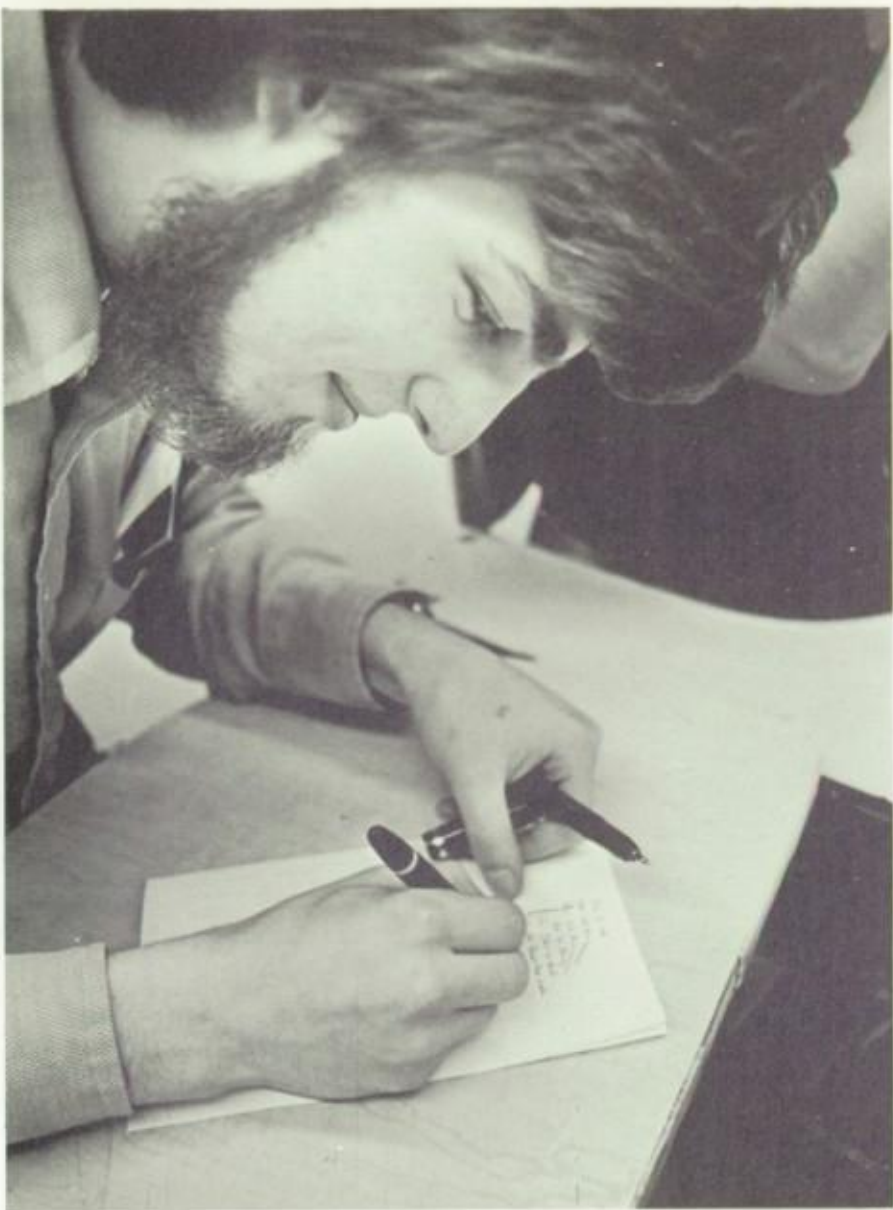

"IT CAN BEST be expressed as an interface between the students, media, and technology." Such was Program director Richard Dienhart's assessment of ITV. Including the staffs of New Triers East and West, Instructionalized television utilized half a dozen adult professionals who encouraged the enthusiasm of those students eager to work with television.

Serving the two schools with five channels, ITV was able to broadcast anything from a full length movie to a quick preview of a new club. Most teachers also utilized ITV's facilities by showing films and special materials on current topics of study.

Student motivation for joining the ITV staff was wide and varied. Vocational training, insight into career opportunities, and an outlet for creative expression were several basic inspirations accounting for ITV's exceptional student participation. The unique technical experiences also developed a sense of responsibility among all participants, making their training valuable for later endeavors. (Directory: page 63)

Right: Despite their inexperience and the pressures of ITV production, freshmen Tom Bloomfield and Greg Hartnett maintain the poise of professionals. Below: At 3:53 in the control room, staff members combine technical resources and human endeavors to produce the perfect 4 p.m. show. (Padgitt, Rezabek)

Creativity unlimited

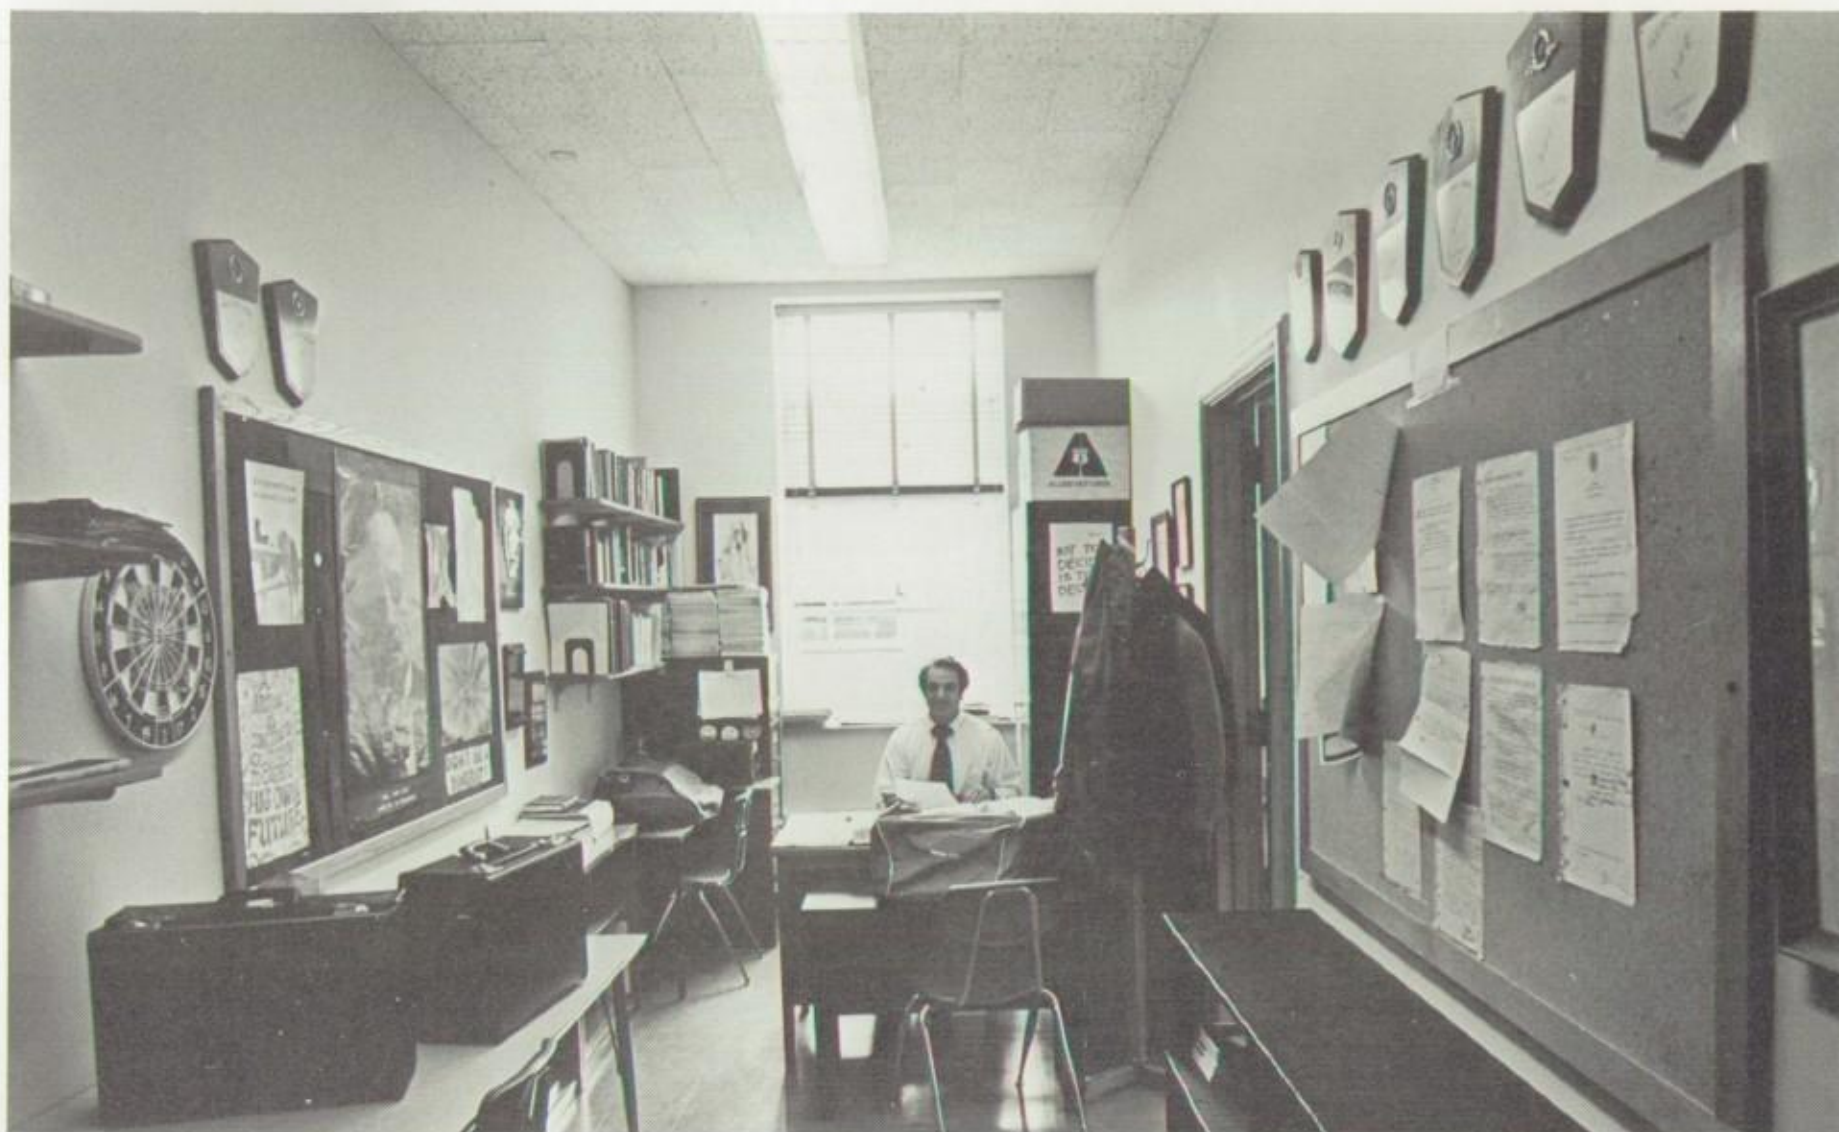

COMBINING JOURNALISTIC and artistic styles, Inklings was one of the fine creative outlets in which students could see their work in print. Unfortunately, submissions were not representative of the entire student body. Coordinating editor Sari Hart, commenting on this dearth of contributions, stated that students seemed afraid to show their sensitivity and creativity publicly. There was, however, a great source of material for Inklings provided by Mrs. Peggy Pink's creative writing class in which students were taught and inspired to write imaginatively. The work of those students and that of others helped to make the magazine a fine literary and art collection. (Directory: page 67)

The power of persuasion

TO THE CASUAL OBSERVER, debaters seemed to radiate poise and polished oratory skills. Yet before they attained this level of professionalism, tournament arguments had to be thoroughly researched and organized, and long hours were spent in practice and travel.

This year's topic—should the United States significantly change the method of selecting Presidential and Vice-presidential candidates—proved very controversial. Affirmative teams, however, experienced some problems in developing strong cases, in that the topic dealt with differing philosophies and did not yield much tangible evidence. Despite this impediment, New Trier brought home awards on varsity, junior varsity and novice levels of competition. With a winning season behind them and much of this year's squad returning, the prospects for another successful year are excellent.

The forensics department also carried this success to other speaking events. Speakers placed consistently high in dramatic interpretation, verse, prose reading, duet acting, extemporaneous speaking, and oratory. (Directory: page 64)

'The Paper Chase'

COMPLETE FREEDOM of the press continued to distinguish the New Trier News from the majority of high school newspapers. Managing editor Julia Murray commented, "The News' independence from faculty censorship enabled us to print articles of more interest to the students without administrative approval; it was the staff's responsibility not to abuse this right."

Supervised by Editor-in-chief Linda O'Keefe, all reporters recognized their responsibility for honesty and spent long hours preparing articles which dealt with student activities and attitudes. The News broadened its scope to include not only investigative reporting but controversial issues as well. Student response was encouraged and expressed through "Letters to the Editor." Opinions were often published, and sometimes followed by flaming rebuttals, as in the cheerleading "scandal."

As in the past, the News ably fulfilled its obligation of comprehensively reporting school-sponsored events. A running story followed the progress of Lagniappe '75 in consecutive fall issues. To supplement the traditional coverage of sports while commending individual sportsmen, an "Athlete of the Week" column was introduced. The combination of objective and subjective articles helped the New Trier News become a viable high school newspaper. (Directory: page 65)

Bound and determined

TO COMMEMORATE New Trier's 75th anniversary, ECHOES turned a new leaf. Rather than the usual story/directory plan, the book was divided into separate chapters, each including its own mini-opening section, school story, and directory. Special opening and closing sections highlighted events of New Trier's past, as well as 1975.

Because of the special demands involved in compiling the Diamond Jubilee edition, the staff extended its working hours beyond period 7/8 well into late night graveyard shifts. Editor-in-chief Cliff Sloan commented, "I never realized the amount of detail work. So many things to keep in mind all the time that it sometimes seemed staggering." But the jobs of writing, indexing, typing, interviewing, editing, and conducting a successful patron drive were balanced by various social functions, including several banquets and a winter ski trip. The leadership of Sponsor Norman Frey and the senior editors kept the project rolling. Mrs. Alice Green joined the staff as faculty assistant to Mr. Frey.

To learn about the newest trends in yearbook production, senior staff members traveled in October to the Columbia scholastic press seminar in New York. The benefits of this trip and the many changes introduced this year led to an ECHOES that reviewed the past and looked to the future. (Directory: page 56)

THEY INVADED the halls, classrooms, meetings, games, productions, and offices: a nose and mouth beneath a camera. These shadows that clicked were ECHOES photographers. Henry Appelbaum, co-head of photography, described his feelings. "As photographers, our job is to portray life at New Trier in an artistic manner, bringing the rush and competition to a halt, giving time for some quiet reflection on the past year." Working under Appelbaum and Randy Busch, 11 photographers took 30,000 pictures, of which 700 were used.

Busch commented, "Working on ECHOES is a full time job. We are in the lab every day after school developing, printing, and retouching." The Gallery section allows the photographers to display their favorite works that go beyond editorial needs of the yearbook.

'The Merry Miser'

A SHIFT FROM the traditional student-written script to the creation of a musical version of a Moliere comedy helped Lagniappe '75 to achieve new vigor. "The Miser," a 17th century comedy, was adapted and performed by 150 participants. The musical dealt with an American family's move to France in order to escape from an economically unstable government, only to find intrigue and chaos in their romantic encounters.

"The Merry Miser" received the financial backing of Tri-ship and Girls' club. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Gill and Mr. Robert Boyle offered their expertise and assistance in direction and staging; the results established both unity and professionalism.

Versatile performances by Kirby Kaden as the protagonist, Harpagon; Beth Blatt as Elise, his daughter; and Peter Moran as his son, highlighted the show, although each performer in the cast and crew was noteworthy. Only the enthusiasm of all who took part in Lagniappe '75 could surpass the polish of the finished production.

'The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail'

PRESENTED WITH VITALITY and control, this year's winter play, "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail," re-enacted the true story of Henry David Thoreau who, in stepping to the beat of a different drummer, accepted jail rather than support the Mexican war through taxes. Through a series of flashbacks, the play related the basic tenets of Thoreau's Transcendentalism and explored the very human aspects of the famed New England philosopher. A bright array of technical effects combined with sound direction and performances to carry the production to a forceful climax. The show was a fitting conclusion to the outstanding series of productions directed by Miss Winifred Gahagan, who retired this year.

Experiment '75

IN WHAT HAS BECOME an annual New Trier tradition, Theatre experiment once again offered students an opportunity to produce and direct their own productions. Experiment '75 consisted of two short stories presented in Chamber theatre style, allowing the narrator not only to describe but also to participate in the action. Featured this year were adaptations of Conrad Aiken's "Silent Snow, Secret Snow," and Kurt Vonnegut's "Who am I This Time?", directed and narrated by Della Pollock and Marsha Goodman, respectively. The works dealt with man's inability to face reality: the first illustrated a young boy's withdrawal into a fantasy world of snow; Vonnegut's story displayed an actor's dependence upon masks for an identity both on and off stage. Highlighted by outstanding character portrayals, both productions allowed the audiences to view and enjoy a novel theatre form.

'Mame'

A MASTERPIECE of musical comedy, this year's opera "Mame" captivated its audiences with an atmosphere of opulence and excitement. With a double-cast of over 100 performers, the story followed the zany adventures of Auntie Mame from the hey-day of the 20's through the Depression, and into the 40's, emphasizing her vibrant optimism and philosophy that "life is a banquet."

The technical aspects of the show were equally spectacular, featuring Mame's mid-air suspension on a moon, and moving from art-deco in Beekman Place to a Southern plantation dripping with magnolias. Leading performers, chorus members, dancers, and musicians performed musical numbers like the title song "Mame" and "We Need a Little Christmas" with verve and spirit.

Director Dr. William Peterman was especially pleased with the production, stating that "in times like these, audiences need an evening of bright entertainment and humor." "Mame" provided such an evening.

Dance concert '75

UNDER THE GUIDANCE of Mrs. Linda Krivkovich, Mrs. Suzanne Wentz, and Mr. Edward Nicholson, members of New Trier's Advanced dance class climaxed a semester's hard work through a vibrant and artistic three-piece concert. The first dance, "Young people's guide to the orchestra," introduced orchestral instruments to the audience as dancers interpreted the music on stage. The Advanced composition class choreographed and executed the work.

Incorporating the music of Mr. Norman Dello Joio, the dance for "Meditations on Ecclesiastes" was created by Mrs. Krivkovich and Mrs. Wentz. Adapted from a biblical proverb, the piece portrayed the different phases of life.

The final dance was the brightly costumed "Petrushka" set to the music of Igor Stravinsky. This story told of three puppets, brought into a living world of love and tragedy. The professionalism and talent presented in this one unusual evening finally brought attention to one facet of New Trier which has long been overlooked. (Directory: Page 90)

FRESH FROM A YEAR'S SABBATICAL, Mr. Stanley Ackerman returned this fall to conduct the symphony, chamber, and string orchestras. Each organization quickly readjusted itself to Mr. Ackerman's style of direction and devoted the time and effort necessary to create a well-polished orchestra. Despite rigorous daily practices, the students felt the results were well worth their hard work. "Music," as one member explained, "gives me something that no other art form can."

As an indication of their busy schedule, the orchestras played in 12 major events including concerts, festivals, plays, and an all-Gershwin program in the spring. (Directory: page 86)

Top brass

AS DEFINED by one percussionist, the major objective of the New Trier bands was to offer the young musicians an opportunity "to appreciate the complexity of music by mastering the technical aspects." Each of the various concerts provided ample learning experiences for the participants. Playing in the state band contest as well as in the Chicago band festival, the honor band also joined the concert band in the local Band day concert with various community junior high schools. All the bands participated both in the Spring and Christmas festivals and in the Wilmette bowl concert.

A great honor was bestowed upon the jazz band when it was chosen to play in the Midwest national band and orchestra clinic. Jazz also helped to fund the Performing arts department by featuring guest soloist Bobby Rosengarden in the annual Jazz night program. (Directory: page 86)

Crews-ing

THROUGH THE COMBINATION of imagination and hard work, the difficult task of creating realistic theatrical sets was accomplished by the backstage crews. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Gill, faculty directors, pointed to genuine interest as the compelling force for students to perform such jobs as lighting, make-up, costume-making, and designing and building sets. Student crew members not only satisfied their technical interests, but also helped to insure the continued success of the Performing arts' numerous productions. (Directory: page 90)

A decidedly disappointing record compiled by the team helped conceal the fact that New Trier's varsity basketball squad last winter was both courageous and colorful. Although Coach Grater's team won only six out of seventeen games and placed sixth in the league, the quintet was a dangerous one and potentially a winning combination.

Until his graduation in February, Captain Hal Finch held down one forward position. Finch was a close approach to perfection in high school basketball, an inspiring leader and the real sparkplug of the Green attack. Don Stillman, Jack Fitzgerald and Art Cruttenden were the other forwards on the squad who saw regular service. All three were fine shots but were handicapped by lack of height. Fitzgerald also played center while Cruttenden was used at guard. Co-Captain-elect John Deacon, the tallest man on the team, was the regular center. "Deke," who was out part of the season with chicken pox, was third high scorer on the team, finishing behind Finch and Fitzgerald.

Tackling the odds

Top: Runningbacks Rick Bickert and Doug Golan prepare to blast their way through a sturdy Evanston defense, but when their efforts fall short of a first down, placekicker Peter Nierman (Above) is called upon to repeat history as he attempts a long field goal. Right: As fate would have it, however, Evanston ended New Trier's hopes for a second straight state championship, much to the dismay of Head coach Chick Cichowski who contemplates next year's strategy. (Katz, Katz, Busch)

THOUGH HAMPERED BY INEXPERIENCE, football Head coach Chick Cichowski's squad developed into yet another winning team, culminating in their strong second place Suburban league finish. Although a heart-breaking loss to arch-rival Evanston ruined their chances for a downstate playoff berth, the Indians' final record of seven victories against only two losses testified to the team's quality.

Attacking with abandon, the explosive offense often dominated the action. Superb runningbacks Doug Golan and Alex Kaseberg were fine examples of strength and speed. Leading scorer and offensive captain Rob Meiresonne was the favorite target of quarterback Jim Matthews' aerials as the swift receiver helped complement the ground attack. The line's play was also noteworthy with Bill Paine and Mark Gion cracking open opposing defenses throughout the season. Matthews handled the punting chores while place kicker Peter Nierman proved to be the Suburban league's best.

(Fasano, Katz, Busch)

CO-CAPTAIN ED CLARK steadied the defense from his safety position, often inspiring his teammates with his many devastating tackles. Exhibiting the quickness and tenacity necessary for their positions, cornerbacks Carl Hampton and Bruce Barkwill joined Clark in forming an excellent defensive backfield. Senior Rick Bickert and junior Hank Slingerland led the linebackers while Paine, Gion, Roy Howland, and Will Volkmann anchored the line. Indicative of the team's talent was the placement of 10 New Trier players on the all-Suburban team.

The sophomores had an extremely successful year, capturing the Suburban league title in majestic fashion. Speedster Dale Estabrook led the way with 1038 yards rushing and 19 touchdowns, while quarterback Richard Weiss consistently passed the Ponies downfield. Following in his brother's footsteps, Mike Clark was a stalwart on the opportunistic defense which registered 10 interceptions and four safeties on the way to the championship.

Progressing steadily, the Freshman A and B teams concluded 6-2 and 2-5-1 seasons, respectively. (Directory: page 140)

Great feat!

SOARING HIGH above expectations, New Trier's varsity soccer squad fell only one goal short of entering the state tournament finals. Through their sub-sectional shutout of Evanston, the team also retained the coveted fire hydrant. Overcoming a slow start, the Indians improved with every game as they gained valuable experience. Playing much better than their record of 8-6-3 indicated, three Indian defeats, as well as three ties, were the results of overtime.

The Indians were basically a defensively oriented team. Goalies Lyman Missimer and Jack Weinberg compiled six shutouts and allowed opponents only one goal on six other occasions. The starting fullback trio of co-captain Bruce Boyd, Steve Levin, and Tom Smith were other defensive stalwarts. Offensive power was also abundant in that the team was shutout only twice. Forward Mark Schneider led all scorers with ten goals; however, co-captain Mark Huck, Dave Shapiro, and Kent Leonard also supplied scoring punch.

NEXT YEAR'S TEAM also looks promising, with juniors Leonard, Scott Alster, Phelps Hoyt, Jerry Konradt, and Clyde Dickey, sophomore John Welch, and freshman Dan Butler all returning with much needed playing experience.

Junior varsity Coach Earl Schabel felt that despite the team's disappointing record, the JV players should fit in well on the varsity next year. Mr. Schabel commented that "the boys always gave 100 per cent; they never gave up. They were a great bunch of kids to work with."

The sophomore team, under the guidance of Coach John Mulliner, was the only New Trier team to become a Suburban league champion this year. According to Coach Mulliner, the team was "well balanced with plenty of good players who knew how to work together."

Coach Carl Hirsch led his freshman A team to an impressive 11-3-2 record. Coach Hirsch attributed the team's success to a fine defensive unit, which allowed opponents only six goals all season.

Freshman B Coach Bob Ward summed up the season by saying, "The boys were a group of enthusiastic, well skilled soccer players who enjoyed a fine season." (Directory: page 142)

Keep on truckin'

DESPITE A SLOW START, the varsity cross-country squad ended its season on a positive note. Capping this year of growth and development was New Trier's second place finish in the district meet, a victory appreciated all the more by the avenging of earlier losses at the hands of rivals Evanston and New Trier West. Captain Jeff Later's experience and leadership were major factors in bringing about this improvement. Later, as well as lettermen Bill Swenson and Rob Fredericks, were the team's consistent stars. The return of two other lettermen, Dick Winter and Pat Lane, following their early season illnesses, also solidified New Trier's potent running force.

Coach Ben Almaguer also has high hopes for next year's team. Replacing the graduating harriers will be veterans Lane, Fredericks, and Dave Knoop, as well as upcoming sophomores Shaun Trenholm and Keith Bogner. Strength was also seen in Peter Burnside's freshman and sophomore team. (Directory: page 144)

The greening of Winnetka

ALTHOUGH IT CAPTURED the Suburban league crown for the second straight year, New Trier's varsity golf team did not enjoy a season without difficulties. With the absence of Todd Mohling, who was involved in a serious motorcycle accident last fall, Head coach Clint Carlstrom's hopes of winning the state title were dashed; unexpected help, however, was received from star sophomore Paul Hindsley to complement the excellent performances of John Zazverskey, John Crawford, Chris Young, and Matt Casey.

A similarly enthusiastic underclass team greeted Tom Swarsen upon his return to the coaching ranks after a four year absence. Following the varsity's example, this squad also responded with a first place Suburban league finish. (Directory: page 145)

Ladies of the court

THE GIRLS' TENNIS team proved its skill once again by capturing a strong second place in the Suburban league, winning seven out of eight matches. The victorious season, marred only by a loss to Oak Park, was topped off by finishing fifth in the televised State meet. Aside from their obvious ability, two key factors contributing to the netters' success were the tremendous enthusiasm they possessed for the sport and the strong sense of unity felt by the girls. Playing the field

FOLLOWING THEIR OPENING GAME VICTORY over Barrington, Coach Bonnie Beach predicted another "winning season" for the Girls' field hockey team. Her prophecy was borne out as this closely knit unit, excelling in defense, spirit, and experience, completed New Trier's third consecutive undefeated season. Led by leading scorer Janet Roberts, and aided by the defensive tactics of seniors Jessica Binkley, Carolyn Bunting, Julie Colwell, Leslie Fry, and Donna Stuhr, the squad continued the excellent reputation that the former two teams had established. Tee-time

DESPITE APPARENT OBSTACLES, the Girls' golf team proved that drive and determination are winning qualities. Coach Geraldine Ryberg braved bad weather and inexperience to lead her varsity squad through a nearly perfect season of seven wins and only three losses. Miss Ryberg attributed the team's strength to Allison Finney, Mary Powell, and Mary Kane, her most valuable players. In addition, long, hard practices and a consistently good attitude proved to be the keys to a very successful season. (Directory: page 147)

Pool sharks

THE REVISED GIRLS' swim team maintained high standards and accomplishments in its third established year. With the incorporation of Boys' federation rules, Coach Leola Kennicke worked with a smaller team and developed the girls' endurance for longer distances. Led by co-captains Martha Redding and Cindy Allen, the swimmers and divers won the Suburban league championship and placed second in the state. In that many of this year's girls were underclassmen, an equally successful season is expected next year. (Directory: page 147)

Supreme court

CAPTURING New Trier's third straight Regional championship, this year's basketball squad defied all early season pronouncements and ended its season on the upswing. Starting the year as a team that was forced to stall against stronger foes in order to keep the score respectable, Head coach John Schneider's Indians steadily improved to the point where they were a threat to all teams they faced.

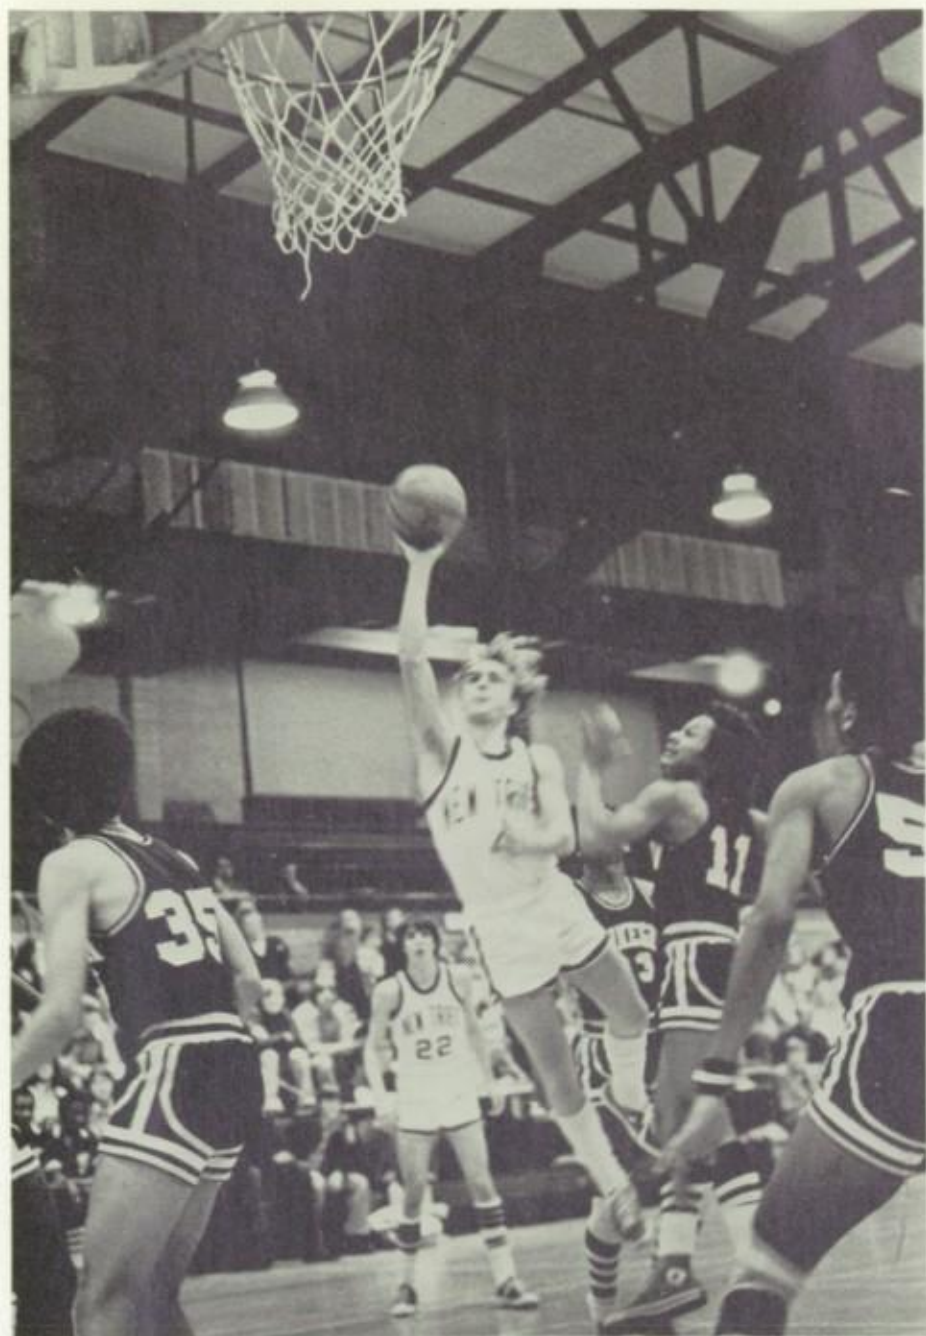

Returning strength was found in senior guards Dave Jauss, an excellent floor leader, and in Scot Peterson, a tough defender and a bull under the boards. Only a sophomore, center Jeff Ryan had a phenomenal year, recording a season total of 367 points and 155 rebounds, and showing great promise towards an All-state future. Two juniors, Rich Temmerman and Chris Seyfarth, made great headway this season, and were keys to the Regional victory. Bench depth contributed greatly to the team's late season thrust, with consistent performances added by seniors Joe Clayman, Lyman Missimer, and John Zazverskey, juniors Mike Musica and Jamie Anderson, and another sophomore standout Tom Hall.

LED BY Coach Terry Barton, the junior varsity posted an excellent 11-2 record.

The sophomore team, robbed of Ryan and Hall, had a disappointing 8-13 season, finishing fifth in the Suburban league, though improving with time as all eight wins came after Christmas vacation. Coach Bill Fly noted that, although there were no distinguished standouts, 12 different boys started during the course of the season, acquiring invaluable experience for next year's varsity squad.

The freshman teams also weathered losing seasons. The A team, coached by Bob Leahy, had a 6-10 record, placing fifth in the league. The B's, coached by Chip Carpenter, finished 4-12, tied for a fleeting last place berth in the standings. (Directory: page 148)

Lords of the rings

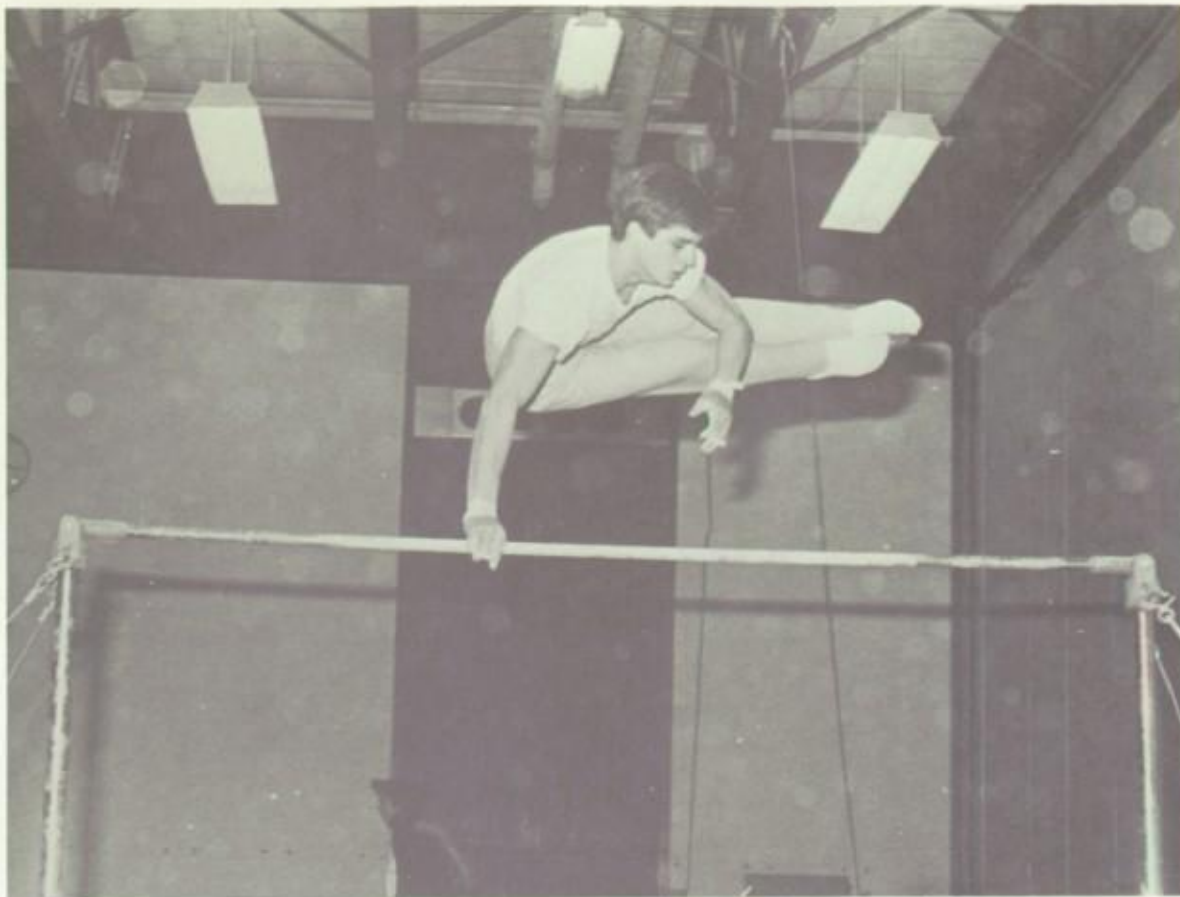

ESTABLISHING ITSELF AS A Suburban league power, the New Trier East gymnastics team closed out its season with a superb 10-4 record. The well-balanced team, the first Indian squad to conquer Evanston in 25 years, sent 10 men to the sectionals, in which four qualified for the state meet. The quartet of varsity performers included Mike Blum on rings, Charlie Hatton on high bar, and Jim Cameron and Brian Avery on trampoline. New Trier's 15th place state finish was paced by Avery, a junior who finished ninth, and Blum, who placed 12th.

According to Head coach Gerry Denk, prospects for continued success are excellent in that many varsity performers will return next year. The encouraging showing of the sophomores, led by Andy Schoof and Mike Stearns, also gave reason for hope. Coach Denk further felt that with the new gymnasium nearing completion and with participation in his programs increasing, the gymnastics team will continue to be a thriving, successful organization. AN INDIVIDUAL state champion, a 14th place state finish, and the best overall record in six years were the results of the wrestling team's all out determination. Fresh from Iowa, Rick Bickert reeled off a 31-1 record, winning the state wrestling crown at 185 lbs. Tri-captain Leo Ellis, at 155 lbs, snared a very respectable eighth place state berth. All-Suburban leaguers tri-captain John Smith and Tom Wijas further bolstered the squad. Continued improvement was found on the part of Juniors Chris Brown and Bill Potts, the nucleus of next year's squad.

The underclassmen came on stronger than in years past. Stroke of genius

AMID INCREDIBLY fierce competition, this year's young but talent-packed swimming team engineered a third place finish in the state meet. The small senior squad, headed by Dan Ahlem and Charley Baughman, was bolstered by a host of promising junior and sophomore standouts and by the experienced coaching of Dave Robertson, Eric Matz, and Bill Wolff.

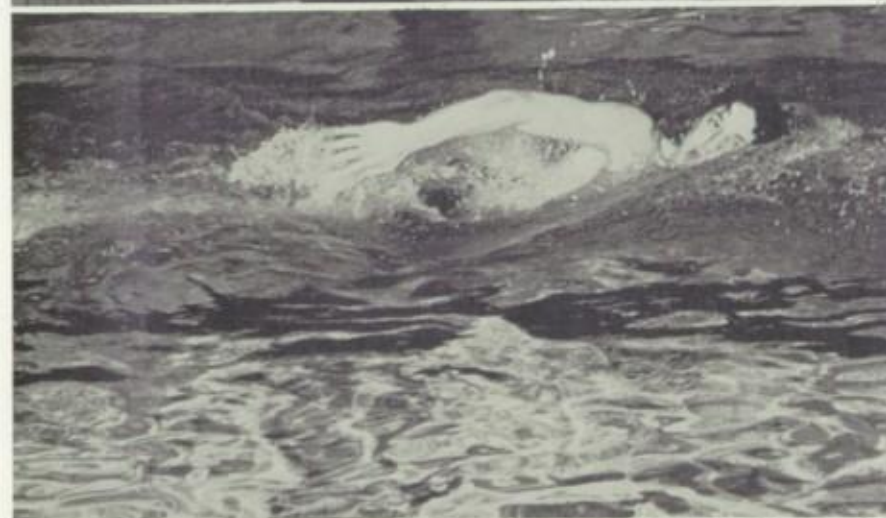

Nowhere was the Green wave's depth of talent more evident than at the locally televised state meet, held at New Trier. The medley relay team, composed of juniors Bill Brackett and Dick Ruderman and sophomores Tom Schreiber and Julian Mack, swam to a fourth place finish. Brackett returned with teammate Mark Alexander to place fifth and 12th, respectively, in the 100 backstroke. Mack recorded the fastest sophomore 50 free-style time in New Trier history and a ninth place finish in the 100 free-style. In the 400 free-style relay Baughman, Ahlem, Ruderman, and Skip Ashmore capped off the meet with a sixth place finish.

Making waves

Administering his final words of wisdom, Coach Wolff prepares his troops for the coming fray. (Busch)

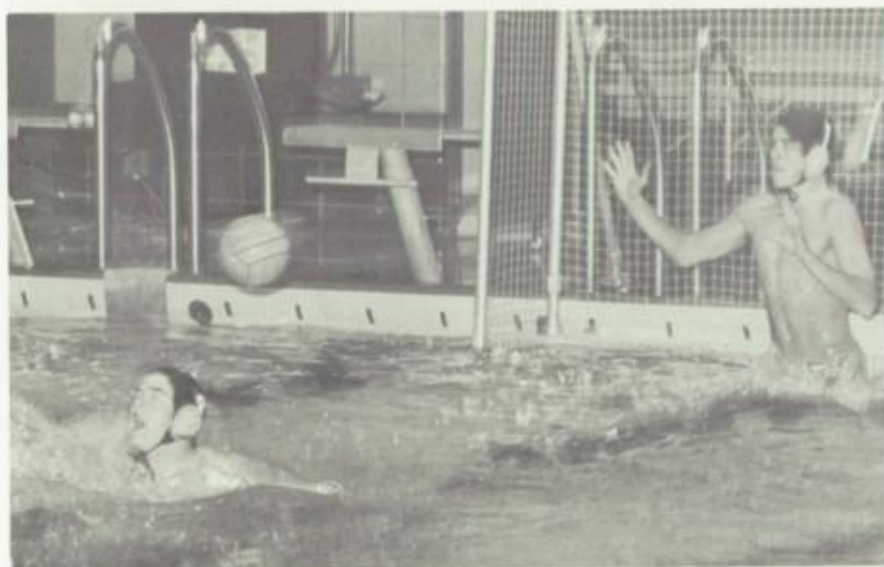

IN ONLY ITS SECOND year at New Trier as an interscholastic sport, the varsity water polo team capped off its season by winning three out of its last four games.

Co-captains Bill Heinzen and Larry Buckingham led the enthusiastic squad to an overall record of three wins and five losses.

Coach Bill Wolff cited his team's lack of experience as the cause of the squad's mediocre record, as most losses came in games against more experienced teams. Two factors, however, promise future strength. Defenseman Dick Ruderman and goalie Pete Fawcett, both starters this year, will return to head a squad that will also include members of this year's junior varsity team, compilers of a respectable 5-2-1 record. Also, fine showings by this year's team against equally unseasoned teams indicated that, with the experience of a few seasons, New Trier's water polo teams should pose a threat to all schools in the state. Sole on ice

UNACCREDITED BY THE IHSA, and yet recognized as a major winter sport, the independently sponsored New Trier Hockey club experienced a year of reconstruction. Led by captain Bobby Gentles, Roy Howland, Dan Young, and Dave Drew, the team's defense remained firm throughout the year. Scoring punch was added by forward Tom Bird, followed by Howie Marsh and Drew. Problems arose because very few of the boys had played together as a unit before this year. Still, despite a disappointing seventh place Metro league finish, the team's playoff performance carried the skaters to a first place tie with New Trier West, only to be denied the championship on a technicality.

Coaches Bert Keats, Ken Fox, and John Martin predicted that next year's squad will be much improved. Returning veterans Drew, Will Volkmann, Matt Keats, Rob Kidwell, and Steve Scheyer, as well as upcoming hopefuls Rick McNerney and Jay Nader, should spark future success. (Directory: page 154)

The dynamic duel

PILOTED BY rookie coach Mike Czarnik, New Trier's varsity fencing team unsheathed its power, finishing sixth in the state. Captain Stu Brainerd, one of only four upperclassmen on this year's squad, showed tremendous strength throughout the season, straining and lunging his way to the Junior olympic nationals held this February in Oregon. Pioneering the cause of co-ed interscholastic competition, the team also admitted Laurie Kallerud to their previously all-male ranks.

Numero uno!

The season's over—the last match through
 And we need not wonder about how we'd do,
 For the match was ours—done our way
 And you're STATE CHAMPIONS! What can we say?
 Except to give voice to the love inside
 The faith we had, the confidence and pride.
 For you see—you CHAMPS—your beauty shows
 It's not skin deep—from within it glows.
 Both on the court and off it, too
 You are CHAMPIONS, through and through.
 Your parents, your families are Number One
 And in Illinois history...
 You are the very best, and the very first and the most fine female type
 VOLLEYBALL CHAMPIONS ever!

Homeward bound

A SWIFT AND POWERFUL Indian baseball team marched into a season delayed by snow, its gusto matched only by that of Mother nature. After weathering the terrible spring weather, Head coach Ron Klein's crew awaited its chance to duplicate last year's feat of winning the Suburban league championship. "Winning back-to-back titles this year will just be added incentive to winning the last Suburban league title ever," commented an anxious Klein.

The Indians certainly possessed the firepower needed to repeat as champions. Built around returning starters co-captain Ed Clark and Drew Pitt, the talent-laden pitching corps promised to be an Indian asset. Senior Geoff Gummer-sall and juniors Scott Fisher and Will Volkmann rounded out the staff. Explosive hitting complemented the hurling as infielder Peter Nierman (.558 summer batting average), Tom Brown (.480), Tom Bird (.417), and co-captain Dave Jauss (.450) devastated the opposing moundsmen. With such speedsters as Charlie Taylor, J. B. Rosen, Bird, and Pitt, the squad constantly was a baserunning threat as well.

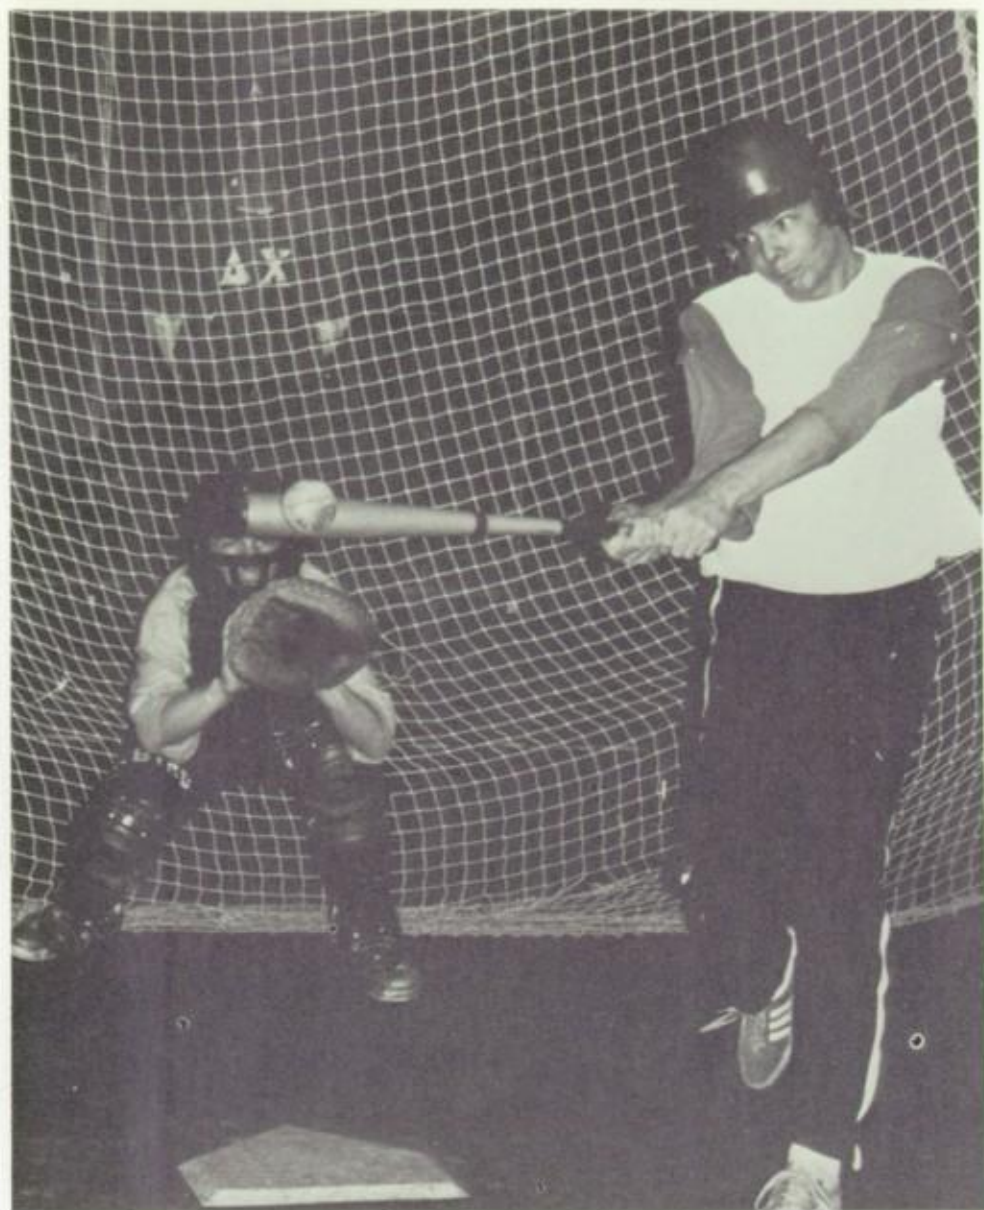

Coach Harold Severns superbly prepared another sophomore team for the varsity ranks. The freshman spirit and talent impressed coaches Wes Baumann and Gene Helfrich throughout the campaign. (Directory: page 158)

In the long run

CONTINUING TO STRIDE FORWARD, the track team shot, jumped, ran, and hurdled itself past many strong teams. Though unable to place first in any large group meets, Coach Ben Almaguer's charges posted a phenomenal 8-0 indoor dual meet record, promising a successful outdoor season. According to Almaguer, a lack of depth and a need for more and better gym facilities impeded his squad's progress. The lack of facilities even ruled out any New Trier participation in the indoor pole vaulting event.

Despite this massive handicap, the squad remained a potent force. Led by co-captains Jeff Later and Mark Gion, the team consisted not only of experienced juniors and seniors, but also of many impressive sophomores who, after competing this year, will have gained the invaluable experience necessary for future meets. (Directory: page 159)

COMING OFF THEIR 1974 SECOND PLACE STATE FINISH, New Trier's defending Suburban league championship varsity tennis team anticipated another impressive season.

Losing four of last year's top eight players to graduation, Coach Hughes Davis' squad was one of the youngest he had ever piloted. Despite their youth, the Indian netmen entered the campaign with experience. Veterans Mark Schneider, Bill Kerr, and Dan Yeager served as seasoned leaders. Also providing punch were seniors Dave Carmell and Craig Umans, as well as sophomores Craig Lee, Gregg Harris, and Kerry Hall, all of whom had spent previous time on the varsity. Phenom Bob Frei, although only a freshman, greatly bolstered the lineup as a strong third singles player.

Sophomore coach Ed Kahler described his squad as "well disciplined, with the potential to develop into an excellent team." The squad, seeking to retain its status as Suburban league champions, counterbalanced its loss of top players to the varsity by relying on its tremendous depth. (Directory: page 160)

Sticking it to 'em

DESPITE THE SEVERE SPRING STORM, lacrosse interest reached new heights as the largest group of boys ever, over 100, came out for the sport. The lacrosse program, largely due to Head coach Jim McFadzean's efforts and to the incorporation of lacrosse into the physical education curriculum, has grown from a team of 45 boys in 1968 to its present size.

Standouts Roy Howland and Dan Young, varsity veterans of three seasons, led the team at midfield. Seniors Bill Paine and Al Gilbert supported the defense, with experience supplied by Jim Cooney and Tom Nissly on attack. Strength was contributed by juniors John Edwards, Scott Harrison, and Pat O'Rourke. A large number of sophomores played at the varsity level including Lloyd Bunting, Litt Clark, Charles Howland, and Rick Houpt.

The addition of Mr. John Schweska as assistant coach on the frosh-soph team greatly aided Head coach William Fly in orienting the underclassmen to the sport. (Directory: page 161)

ALTHOUGH ANTICIPATING increasingly difficult competition, the Girls' track team confidently approached its short but grueling season. Marked improvement in both the caliber and dedication of the squad indicated a successful year would be enjoyed. Due to the lessened size of the team, almost half of last year's number, greater opportunity existed for individualized coaching.

Banking on a few returning stars and a strong freshman squad, the team expected to parallel or better last year's second place finish in the Suburban league. Leaders were hurdler Martha Hall, sprinter Karen Raggi, and middle-distance runner Leslie Fry, all of whom were counted on to shine in their respective events, contributing leadership, effort, and morale to the team. For the fun of it

TO GIVE THE GIRLS their fair share, the Girls' athletic association created new intramural activities while continuing their established programs. Co-ed bowling, one of the most successful of the new sports, enjoyed high levels of student participation, equal to that of the annually held intramural sports. Club members attributed this year's increased turnout to the wider selection of sports offered and the extra work put into publicity.

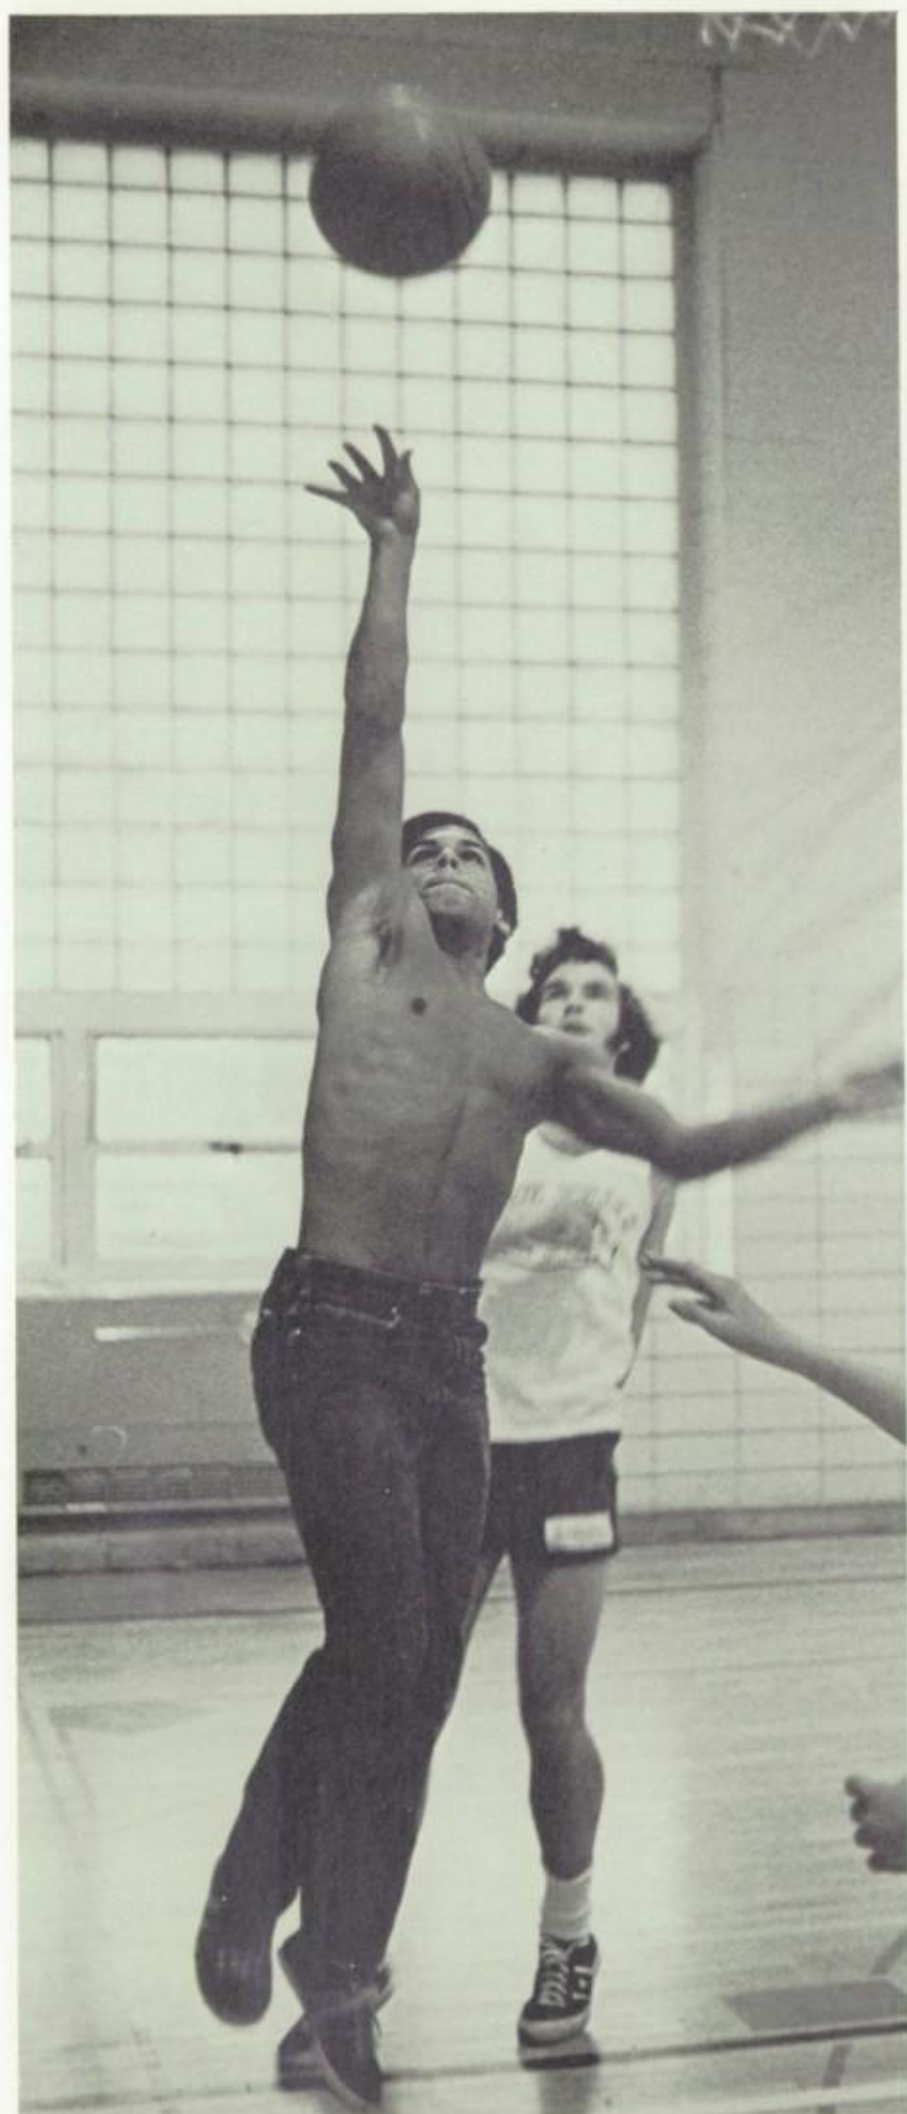

The enthusiasm and productivity of the club was exemplified in this year's first place homecoming float. This spirit prevailed through the year in all social events. Freshman play-day gave incoming girls an opportunity to enjoy several diverse activities and to get a glimpse of the organization. Other events set up for the simple purpose of enjoyment were the New girls' tea, Mother-daughter gym-jam, and the Faculty-board dinner. The annual water-ballet show and Christmas sale, while evoking equal amounts of spirit and fun, profited the organization and helped in allowing it to continue providing athletic opportunity and enjoyment for girls. THE SUCCESS of any organization rests upon the amount of support it receives. According to Student director Glen Peterson, this year's intramural sports program met with success as an increased number of competitors made use of IM. Peterson attributed this boost to the wide range of activities which IM offers to each and every New Trier boy.

Because of the seemingly never-ending gym construction, some of these activities were held outside the walls of New Trier. Team basketball was played at Central School in Wilmette and, early this fall, IM tennis players competed on various local courts. Football, handball and free-play basketball, all played on home ground, drew many eager players. Numerous special one day events such as a walking race and the first annual punt, pass, and kick contest were received with great enthusiasm. IM forces also united with GAA in hosting a successful co-ed bowling tournament.

With the completion next year of the new IM gym, board members hoped that even more boys will take part in the intramural program. (Directory: page 164)

THE DEPRESSING ECONOMIC situation struck the New Trier budget in 1975, forcing the faculty and administration to re-evaluate the present financial system. Because of the recent cutback in state funds, new Superintendent Roderick Bickert instructed department heads to examine their educational necessities during this transitional year. Principal Ralph McGee summarized the school's priorities when he stressed that the administration's goal was to "prevent the dismantling of a great New Trier."

Despite such serious concerns, faculty members occasionally utilized spare time to pursue professional and personal interests. Orchestra leader Stanley Ackerman, for example, directed the Grant park summer festival while art instructor Walter Chruscinski collected and lectured on Polish art. Personal hobbies ranged anywhere from dogbreeding to winetasting, illustrating the diverse make-up of the teaching staff.

Retired this year, after years of sharing their interests and experiences with students, were Mrs. Gertrude Alter, Mrs. Elizabeth Beane, Everett Compton, Miss Winifred Gahagan, and Mrs. Arline Ream.

JUNIOR CLASS

The third year of the class of 1933 has almost reached its completion. In every way the members of the class have proven true upperclassmen.

Leap year was carried out in full fashion this year by giving the girls the opportunity for managing affairs. A girl was elected president, and the girls did the dating for the first semester's party. This novelty aroused great interest. Two school orchestras provided continuous dancing, and the "depression" decorations were unique, to say the least. Due to the hard times it was agreed to abandon the Junior Prom, but to present a number of Junior boys, who are especially desirous for this party, are hoping to stir up enough enthusiasm for its usual success.

During the student tax-warrant campaign in March the boys and girls cooperated splendidly. The Junior class alone raised over $22,000 in these two weeks to help the school stay open.

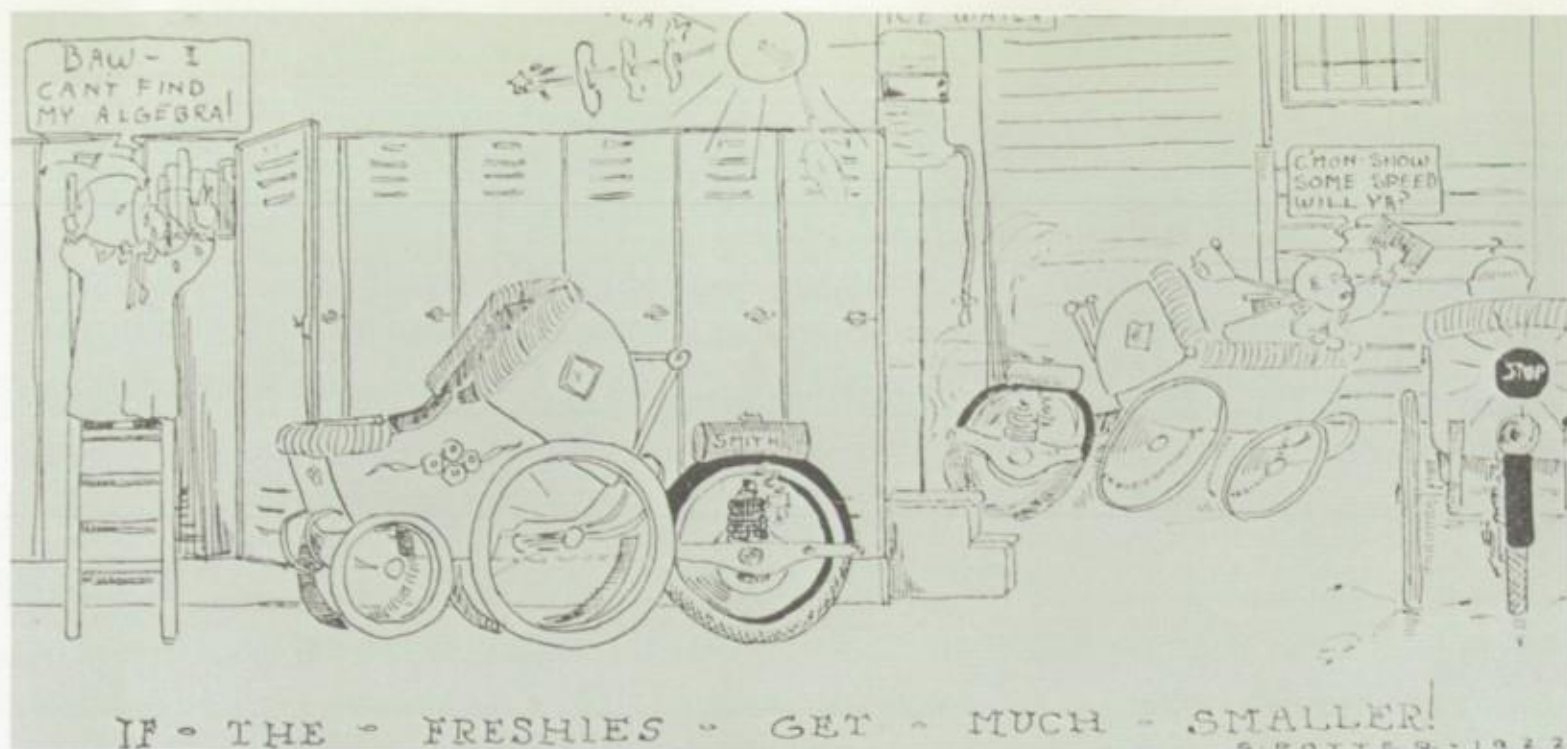

Miss Flentye and Mr. Vernon have helped us unsparingly, and we feel indebted to them. We sincerely hope we will have no trouble in filling the place of the class of 1932 next year.

The learning tree

THERE ARE COUNTLESS WINDOWS at New Trier, and at one time or another, every student has sat through a class looking out one of them. Not all the school's windows were set in walls, however; teachers, classes, and textbooks were windows to knowledge, sources for the students to consult and explore.

In its 75th year, New Trier grew to fit the student's interests and intellectual needs as the atmosphere of the school reflected the moods of the nation. A new political awareness brought fresh meaning to such classes as Human behavior, Politics of democracy, and the Role of women in history. The instability of the economy sparked a new concern for consumer and economic courses.

Some students looked towards the future and tried to keep pace with the country's technological growth through such courses as Electrical radio, Aeronautics, and Engineering lab. Others, however, opted for the naturalistic Human ecology, Earth science, Ceramics, and Sculpture offerings.

New Trier's curriculum has come a long way in three-quarters of a century, reflecting the needs and interests of its students, promising to do the same for the next 75 years.

'The time has come,'

the Walrus said,
 'To talk of many things:
 Of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—
 Of cabbages—and kings—
 And why the sea is boiling hot—
 And whether pigs have wings.'
 Lewis Carroll

FOR CENTERITES, the Walrus was right. After at least one year in the parent school, students in the Center for self-directed learning decided that "the time ha(d) come" to assume the responsibility for their own education. Each centerite believed that education was not a passive object which could be given or gotten, but an active process which was integral to growth; he therefore attempted to create his own education, evaluated it, and then learned from his mistakes. In this way, the emphasis was placed not on the result, but on the process; not on the answer, but on the question.

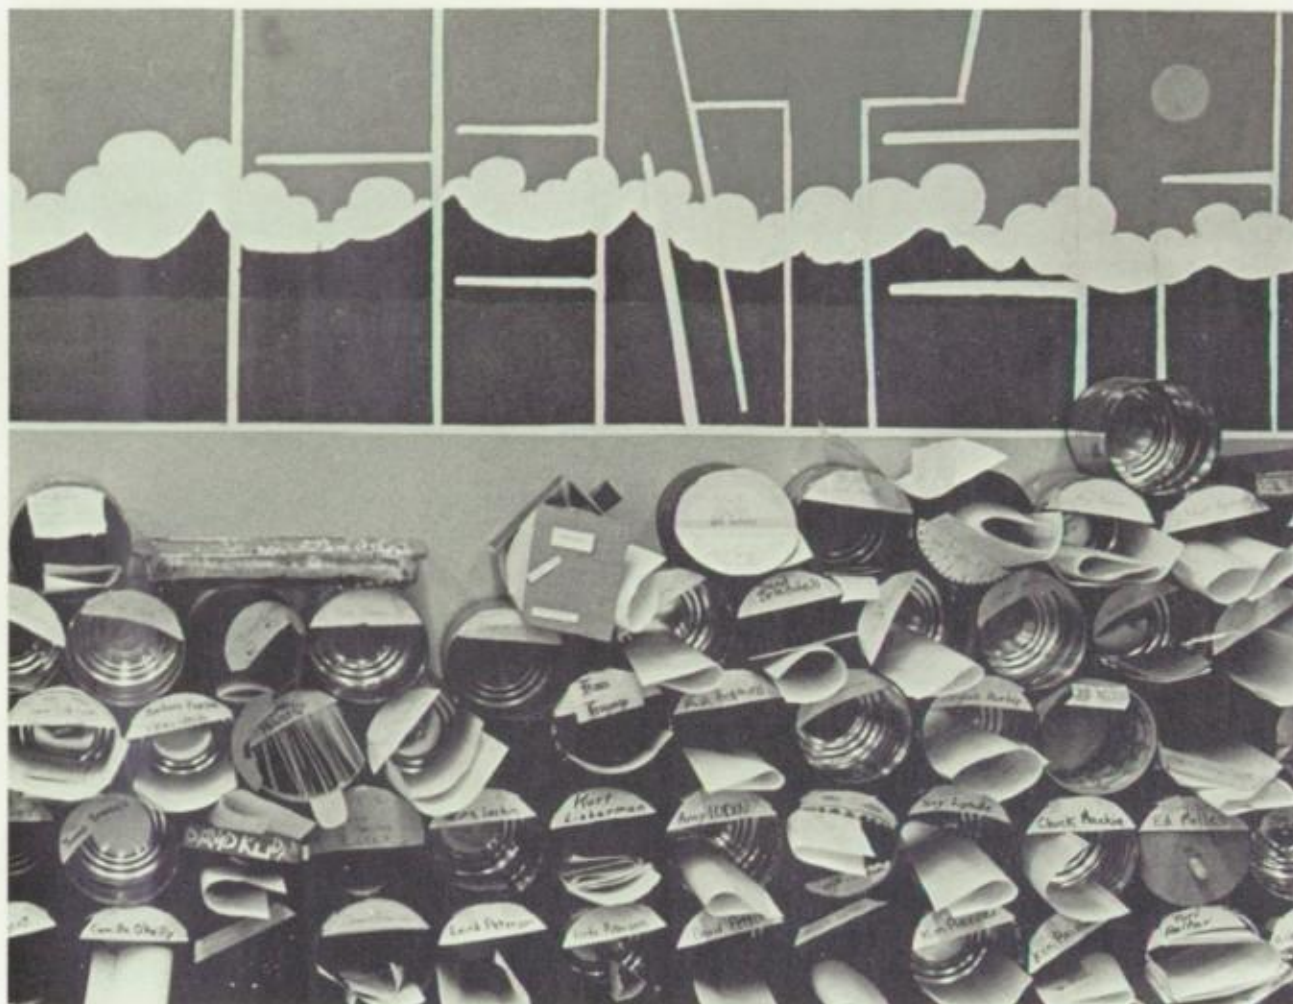

Mr. Jim Bellanca, coordinator of the Center, explained that the program was individually structured to provide a time and an atmosphere which allowed students "to talk of many things" through independent studies, seminars, and internships. Yet it is difficult to pursue goals during a time of growth as hectic as the high school years. Not everyone is interested in "shoes—and ships—and sealing wax." Yet for most Centerities, "The time ha(d) come." (Directory: page 219)

JUNIORS

IN THE TRUE "SPIRIT OF '76," the Junior class declared its independence by abandoning the traditional methods of achieving class unity. Plans for the unprecedented Winter formal turnabout began early in September, giving the steering committee and its various sub-committees a chance to show their flair for organization. Half of the substantial profits gained from the dance was donated to the Cancer society, the other half being reserved for Prom expenses. A bake sale and peanut butter cup sale yielded additional contributions for cancer research.

Remaining unchanged were the usual pressures and opportunities that accompany junior year. Extra-curricular activities served as a relief from tedious hours devoted to the junior theme and PSAT's; college conferences and career showcases directed the class of '76 towards the future. In this way, the juniors neared the end of the journey which only last year seemed endless.

SOPHOMORES

Apathetic at first, the sophomores became eagerly involved in steering committee-sponsored events. Solid organization as well as enthusiastic participation were clearly evident at the class party and the party for new students. Fund-raising projects including a Halloween booth and class bake sale helped finance the entertainment.

The class's social enthusiasm was equalled only by their quest for academic development. In the past, sophomores enrolled only in required courses. This year, for both personal fulfillment and practical application, many class members took advantage of the vast academic resources. Thus 1975 was a year not only for spirited social festivity, but one for sensible construction of goals and guidelines for oncoming years.

The Class of 1975

Senior year is an experience which cannot be described in words; the essence is lost in the translation. Words cannot describe the varied and confused emotions of a senior: relief to be safely ending four tortuous years of growing up; anticipation and fear of starting a new, more independent life; the regret at leaving old friends, and a familiar, even if disliked, routine.

Instead, memories will be revived by the concrete remnants of senior life: programs from forgotten football games, a pressed flower from the Winter formal, a pair of faded blue jeans, ticket stubs from Elton John and Joni Mitchell concerts, an English paper butchered by red ink, love letters, doodles in a spiral notebook, No-Doz, overdue notices from the library, a crushed pack of Marlboros, a 1975 ECHOES.

A TOAST TO '21

(From the under classes)

Soon we must part, but not forever. May we meet in the future, may we find each other successful, may we be happy in each other's successes. Yes, may we meet again, and, if not meeting, may we linger forever as memories, pleasant memories, happy memories. As the long years pass, as we, too, face life in its harder, sterner form, the recollections of the years in which we worked and played together will come to us as refreshing draughts from the spring of happiness. The years when we worked together! Worked, let us hope, and not in vain, for the good name of our school, its recognition far and wide. In the years to come, let us perpetuate the name of our school as an ideal, an ideal to be upheld, carried far and wide, held aloft for admiring eyes to behold.

Let this parting not be final, let it be reversed. However, let us have no sad reflections. May we remember you, '21, in our happiest relations with you. In our memories of you, we will think always of your successes, your spirit of co-operation. It is necessary that you leave us, to face the world, perhaps to conquer, to win success—let us hope so.

So here's to you, '21, and to all those things that constitute your success, your athletics, your scholarship, your co-operation, your good-fellowship. We wish you well. May you build up a success founded upon worthy and true ideals, upon faith, faith in the highest and noblest things in life. God speed you, '21.

Wilbur Bruns, '22.

On the New Trier community

- "You really don't realize how great the North Shore, how fantastic New Trier is, until you've travelled around the country. The whole school system on the North Shore is more innovative than the rest of the country."
- "Not all schools have programs like New Trier athletics. You take things for granted so much on the North Shore. Compared to other sections of the big cities and so forth, the North Shore is the greatest place in the world to raise a kid. That's why I've often thought of moving back and settling down, but I could never do it."

On New Trier's well-known performers

- "The very fact that New Trier had a drama department naturally caused people to get involved ... but I know most of those people were not attracted to the arts until later, with the exception of Heston, who, ever since he was four, knew he wanted to be an actor. I don't know what the other people thought—maybe Ann was interested, but I don't think Rock was. I know I wasn't. At the time I was too busy playing ball."

Reminded by New Trier authorities of past transgressions that resulted in his 1921 expulsion, Actor Ralph Bellamy gets his sweet revenge. (1952)

Ralph Bellamy, Actor

Class of '21, President of Dramatics club

"My chief interest was the Dramatics club of which I was President. I didn't have many opportunities to display my histrionic talents because I was not considered a very good actor. I was not aware of this estimate at the time. But even had I been, it wouldn't have deterred me.

"I was finally expelled from New Trier for smoking on the campus grounds. I understand smoking is permitted now. But I quit smoking ten years ago.

"The North Shore has changed over the years, but what and who hasn't? I used to go to the Mahoney farm with two buckets for our milk. The Mahoney farm is now the triangular and populous strip of Sheridan Road between Wilmette and Kenilworth.

"I had a good time in those days, swimming in Lake Michigan in the summer and skating from Kenilworth to Highland Park on the Skokie in winter and enjoying friendships, many of which continue, and all the time dreaming of becoming an actor.

"It was fun. And I'm still having fun."

Sincerely,
Ralph Bellamy

Mike Pyle

Professional football player Class of '57, three-letter athlete

"What do I remember about New Trier? A lot of rubble, re-routed hallways, temporary classrooms, and heavy equipment noise. The new school was under construction three of the four years I was there. But the inconvenience caused by the building program didn't stand in the way of the pride we had in our school. School spirit was in vogue. Anything Green & Grey was good and we were proud of our achievements. As a result, most students were involved in school activities. As an athlete, I was proud to wear my letter sweater on Fridays according to custom.

Most of my time outside of the classroom was spent on the playing field. Naturally, my favorite teachers were coaches. Sophomore line coach Erv Weingartner taught me a lot about football fundamentals. Sophomore head coach Chuck Laner was my adviser and a good friend. Wrestling coach Al Hurley was a great man and has had a lasting influence on my life. And, of course, there was the great Walt Ashenbach, an outstanding football coach.

"My student council experience introduced me to some very important qualities. We preferred to supervise ourselves rather than be supervised by the adults. We had student-supervised lunch halls, student-supervised study halls, and an honor code whereby we all signed a pledge prior to taking an exam which said we would not cheat. Teachers left the classroom during an exam.

"I think that our total involvement in school activities was a product of the times. The government was strong, the economy was strong, society was normal. All we concerned ourselves with was going to school and enjoying what we did there."

Sincerely,
Mike Pyle

Wordsmiths

Walter Jacobson
Television commentator
Class of '55, Assistant sports editor, New Trier News

Les Brownlee, Television commentator
Class of '37, Editor-in-chief Inklings 1937.

"You mentioned New Trier, and that magic name uncorked a niagara of nostalgia.

"There was 'Pete' Peterson, who more than any other single individual, started me on my career as a wordsmith. He appointed me to the staff of Inklings in my junior year, and named me editor-in-chief in my senior year. After that vote of confidence by the lanky, daily-sonnet-writing English teacher, the future course of my efforts was set in concrete.

"There was Lulu Wright, another English teacher, who deepened my appreciation of the power of the English language. There was Maybelle Payton, the lovable grandmotherly speech teacher, who showed me the power of the spoken word. Nor can I forget Laura Fulton, who made a 'dead' language of Latin come alive. The more I think of it, the more I am assailed with a montage of teachers' faces, like Duckles, Harper, and—believe it or not—the warm Matthew GAFFNEY, the principal I really admired.

"For the most part, students seemed to be interested in making it big with members of the opposite sex. There was the spectre of college board exams that loomed on the horizon, and of course, there was the 'Beat Evanston' mania.

"Those were the years of the Great Depression and students seemed concerned about money and money matters. Of course, we went back and forth to school on the 'tripper,' the old North Shore Line. There was White's drugstore, where many an amorous glance was exchanged over cokes and shakes.

"I wish you godspeed in your effort, and here's to the Green and the Grey"

Warmly,
Les Brownlee

Jane Howard, Author
Class of '52, Associate editor
ECHOES 1952

"We called ourselves the 'Keenies,' my friends and I, in suspicion of the much-repeated canard that these teen years were the keen years, the keenest we would ever know. Good God, we wondered, could that be true? Suspending disbelief, we loyally sat out there on the bleachers of an autumn Saturday, singing 'three thousand strong we march, march along for the school by the lake serene,' and smiled a lot, and hoped to be popular.

"As a freshman I had a quite unilateral crush on a senior boy who was a champion diver and cheerleader. I would beg my parents to drive me past his house, so I could take snapshots of it and maybe sneak a glimpse of him. I might as profitably have set my cap for General MacArthur, whom we were given a day off to watch as he faded away, before our very eyes, on Sheridan Road.

"In 1952, our dilemma was whether the Republican presidential nomination ought to go to General Eisenhower or, as more of us tended to think, to his opponent, Mr. Integrity. We never voted for ourselves in elections.

"Not to say there weren't shining hours. Miss (Louise) Hamilton's and Mr. (Richard) Peterson's English classes endure in my memory still, and though my singing voice was and is mediocre, I'm glad to have been exposed to the Music department. And there were times when we laughed, often at the absurd tameness of our vices. Some of us experimented on the sly with nail polish, but it was considered 'cheap' to smoke, much less drink even beer, before college. We kept smiling, and apologizing. One of my most cringing memories is of making my self-conscious way from locker to classroom, hailing people by saying, 'Excuse me: hi.'

"The subsequent years, if anyone wonders, have been a lot more keen."

All best,
Jane Howard

Archibald MacLeish, Author
Attended New Trier 1905-1907

"I didn't know that there was a 'New Trier East.' I suppose that would be New Trier itself. I attended it ('attended' is precisely the right word)—age thirteen to fifteen. Glencoe was then a lovely village with a wild lake bluff and the Skokie was the most magnificent marsh in the world: you could easily get lost in it and there was never a day you didn't find a new bird. I'm sorry to report that I remember nothing of New Trier but the fact that I mispronounced GIBBET in class and have never been sure of it since. (Such is the power of ridicule in adolescence.) 'Back to the North Shore recently?' Yes. For a sad errand last spring. It's a depressing sight—one endless suburb from Green Bay to South Bend. Look at it from the air next time you're up. No, you must envy me my youth: The North Shore seventy years ago was a boy's paradise. Even the Chicago Tribune was young and daring!"

Faithfully,
Archibald MacLeish

Dear Mr. Howard
You write of August 1952
I don't know how you know I attended it (attended is precisely the right word) from 1905 to 1907—age thirteen to fifteen. Glencoe was then a lovely village with a wild in the world: you could easily get lost in it and there was never a day you didn't find a new bird. I'm sorry to report that I remember nothing of New Trier but the fact that I mispronounced GIBBET in class and have never been sure of it since. (Such is the power of ridicule in adolescence.)

'Back to the North Shore recently?' Yes. For a sad errand last spring. It's a depressing sight—one endless suburb from Green Bay to South Bend. Look at it from the air

The North Shore seventy years ago was a boy's paradise.
Even the Chicago Tribune was young and daring!

Statesmen

Charles Percy, U.S. Senator
Class of '37, Honor society

"I have fond memories of New Trier. I believe the school's dedication to giving its pupils the finest education has resulted in its being able to boast so many outstanding graduates. I am very pleased that New Trier still strives for the same goal.

"I am also encouraged by the changes I see amidst the New Trier student body. Students take a much greater active interest in events outside of their own small worlds. The continued building of this country into a true democracy with equal opportunities for all, depends on the social awareness and concerns of your generation and those who follow you."

Sincerely,
Charles Percy

Joseph Lundy, Illinois state representative
Class of '58, Editor-in-chief ECHOES 1958

On the New Trier atmosphere

- "New Trier was basically college preparatory. The prom and the Christmas dance were very important. Anybody who could go, did. My class took our sports very seriously. You just didn't miss a football or a basketball game, home or away."
- "They were absolutely fantastic in creating an ardent desire for intellectual curiosity. Carl Clader made chemistry enjoyable; Robert Boyle was a special teacher who taught me to appreciate literature; Loris Hoyt was an ideal adviser who brought a lot of kids through New Trier who might not have made it, fellows from broken homes."

On then and now

- "In light of the experience of the '60's, my classmates and I were fairly naive and uninitiated. There was an awful lot of insecurity and a tremendous desire to find a steady, just so you wouldn't end up alone. I hope today's students don't have the same terrible pressure to conform."

Bradley Glass, Illinois state senator
Class of '48, State wrestling champion

On the New Trier atmosphere

- "In 1948, the war was still a factor in our education. Many students went into the military either directly after high school or after college. There were vets in many classes."
- "I felt I knew everyone in my class ... because of that I made friendships that have lasted since. Our frequent reunions renew old bonds."

On faculty

- "The quality of the faculty was outstanding, particularly Mr. and Mrs. Clader, and also Mr. Windoes, my physics teacher."

On then and now

- "In many respects New Trier is similar to the past. The high school years remain the most impressionable—the dates, the academic work, the mere physical growth."
- "It seems to me that there is a decline, which I don't like, in athletics. In my day, everybody who had a chance went out for the freshman team; it was the thing to do."

Donald Rumsfeld, Executive assistant to the President

Class of '50, Vice-president of Tri-ship

"I have received your letter about the plans for commemorating the 75th Anniversary of New Trier High School East. I am, of course, delighted to respond. My response, however, will be brief in that I am in the process of leaving my present assignment as U.S. Ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and simultaneously assuming my new responsibilities as Assistant to the President with responsibility for coordination of White House operations.

"My wife of twenty years, the former Joyce Pierson, was also in the class of 1950. We were junior class officers together. So when you ask me to reminisce about New Trier, the first thing that comes to my mind is that I had the very good fortune to find Joyce Pierson there.

"Certainly the honor system was something that I recall as being very special. It was a new idea to me as an entering freshman. There is no question that its existence had the effect of thrusting responsibility on the students. The vast majority of students accepted that responsibility. Not only did the honor system work in the sense that it successfully addressed the problem it was designed to meet, but, it had the effect of helping young men and women to assume responsibility for their own behavior.

"I recall a number of teachers and faculty members: Dean Kahler and his son who were so helpful in encouraging me to apply to Princeton, a University I did not see until I arrived as a student; Helen Maloney and Roland Ware, our class advisers; and Mr. Windoes, probably one of the finest physics teachers in the country, and a splendid human being. The coaches, Pete Franzen, my adviser, Jim McFadzean, Al Hurley, Joe Gialombardo, were helpful to me personally. They launched me on my first experience in organized athletics.

"You ask, 'What is the most striking change?' I guess it is that those of the class of 1950 are getting older and not unhappily so."

Sincerely,
Donald Rumsfeld
